Gould Gets Left.

His Raid on Wall Street Pronounced a Failure.

National Associated Press to the Star.

New York, April 13.—The decline in prices of the most active stocks, which has prices of the most active stocks, which has been a marked feature of the transactions in Wall street during the past few days and which resulted in considerable demoralization among weak holders and small operators gave place to-day to a decided healthy tone and sharp recovery of prices through ut the list.

The cause of the decline in the face of

The cause of the decline in the face of the general prosperity throughout the country is explained by the fact that Jay Gould, for several months past, has been short of certain stocks at the loss of from twenty to forty points. It is known that he was short upwards of fifty thousand shares of Delaware, Lackawana and Western, which he could not have closed out at ruling figures, except at a loss of nearly $200,000.

In order to break down prices so that he

In order to break down prices so that he could cover his shorts Gould, for the last five or six weeks, resorted to the expedient of borrowing large sums of money from banks in New York, and thus withdrawing cash from the street, producing an artificial stringency for borrowing purposes and in-creasing the rate for loans on stock collaterals. Gould thus succeeded in imparting an apparent weakness to the list of speculative stocks, which was mainly directed against coal stocks, but brokers say to-day that the raid was a failure.

War Declared Upon the Merry Moonshiners.

GREEN BAY, WIS., April 13.-Last night Important Proceedings in Committees To-day.

> UNCLE DICK'S OHIO FIGURES. Special to the Star.

WASHINGTON, April 13.-Ex-Governor Bishop of Ohio, who is here, says he is not at all willing to concede Ohio to the Republicans next fall. He says that the status of the State has not yet been precisely determined. "It can be considered," he said, "fair fighting ground for all parties. The politics of that State the last seven years demonstrates the co rectness of my views. In 1873 Allen carried the State by 800 majority. Up to that time it had been unbrokenly Republican for fifteen years. In 1874 the State was carried by the Democracy by 17,000. Then, next year, 1875, Hayes was made a candidate for Governor against Allen and was elected, after one of the hardest fought contests ever had in the State, by some-thing over 3,000. In 1876, the Presidential year, the Republican State ticket was elected by about 6,000, and Hayes received the same majority. In the following year Bishop was elected by 22,000. In 1878 the Republicans recovered the State by about 000, and in 1879 Foster carried it by 17,000. In these seven years the Democrats have had one majority which goes ahead of anything the Republicans have had, and other of 17,000, equal to the highest the Republicans have had. A majority of 800 made again of about 20,000 votes." These figures, Mr. Bishop said, induced him to believe that there was nothing reliable about the State, and that with a good ticket that will harmonize all conflicting elements, and proper zeal and work, the State can be carried by the Democracy.
